

Hi Dr. & Mrs. Howard,

Please find attached some very interesting, and inspirational news on the opportunity you give to a lot of Young Inspirational S.A. Leaders, through IYL. I so hope that you continue to to keep up the good work. Give my regards to everyone. Thank you once again for the impact you've made in my LIFE!

Regards

Lucky Sidney Madonsela

CIDA student wins Goldman Sachs International Leadership award

*Lucky Sidney Madonsela,
CIDA student*

Lucky Madonsela, a second year student at CIDA, has won the Goldman Sachs Leadership award and $3000 to cover his educational expenses. He has been chosen as one of six Global Leaders from South Africa from five universities across the country. This is an amazing feat as he was competing with students from established universities and whom probably attended private schooling.

Lucky is from an informal settlement in the East Rand, Duduza location, and Bluegum-view section and completed his matric in 2001 at Asser Maloka Secondary. He is currently doing his BBA degree specialising in corporate finance and is also part of the ICT Academy.

This competition forms part of the Goldman Sachs international Leadership Programme – which has 100 universities from around the world participating. The other participating South African universities are Wits, UCT, University of KZN and the University of the Western Cape.

The Goldman Sachs Foundation and IIE (Institute of International Education) have invited the six winners to the Goldman Sachs Global Leaders Program recognition events in May. A selection panel will conduct interviews with the 6 Global Leaders to select the 3 who will represent the group at a week long Global Leadership Institute in New York City, to be held in July. The Program will pay for all their travel, meals and lodging expenses for this event.

Good luck Lucky! We are already so proud of you.

The following students were also nominated from CIDA: Dino Peterson. Bongani Nyembe, Donally Visagie and Pumla Pule.

Thanks to Dr Sandra Musengi from CIDA's academic department for nominating Lucky and special thanks to Nesan Chetty, CIDA Senior Marketing Manager for the support and guidance you have given and are still giving to Lucky.